What is A Competitor?

"He plays like every play means the championship. The guy never gives up. He's never beat mentally. He's a game player. He comes through for the team. He is consistent. He does his job every play. Setbacks don't discourage him. He's never satisfied with his performance. He keeps on going play after play...FULL SPEED. He runs you to death. You can't relax for a moment. He doesn't play cautious. He's aggressive...always on the attack. He's more interested in the team than personal glory and winning is the most important goal.

“TR”

Total Release

Total release is one of the driving forces of this program. “TR” refers to the total or complete release of oneself towards the completion of a task, and the commitment toward completing this task with your best possible effort. This type of commitment is far greater than most of the commitments we see in our society today. Too many people are only interested in doing just enough to get by. A “TR” effort is one in which getting by is not enough. A person who gives a true “TR” effort is able to walk away at the conclusion of a job and say, “I have no more to give”. When a person is able to give a “TR” type effort, they find that things usually take care of themselves. This does not always mean that a “TR” effort will result in a win; at least not the type of win society is used to thinking of. When the principles of “TR” are applied, there are two types of scoreboards you must consider. The first scoreboard is called the “Public Scoreboard”. This scoreboard is usually located at the end of a field or gymnasium. This is the scoreboard the fans use to assess the success or failure of the team. The second scoreboard is called the “Private Scoreboard”. To the player, this is the most important scoreboard to look at. The only person who sees this scoreboard is yourself, and therefore, you are the only person that will be able to assess your success. The assessment of this success can be answered by one simple question; “Is there anything left to give”? If your answer is that you have spent your all, then you have won on the “TR” scoreboard. In most cases you will find that a “TR” victory translates to a win on the Public Scoreboard as well. However, even if you don’t produce a win on the Public Scoreboard, you can always win on the “TR” Scoreboard. These “TR” victories are by far the most satisfying, and they show the true character of a man and a competitor. The concept of “TR” is summed up best by a poem from the original TR...Teddy Roosevelt.

The Reality of Man

“It is not the critic who counts; not the man who pointed out how the strong man stumbled or where the doer of deeds could have done better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again and again; who knows the great enthusiasms; the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who, at best, knows in the end triumph of high achievement and who, at worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those timid souls who know neither victory or defeat.”

–Teddy Roosevelt, President USA, 1904
